

A better model for risk management

The business of risk management is broad and increasingly complex. Today's global exposures have dramatically increased in intensity and scale, posing serious challenges for even the most sophisticated risk management programs.

In addition, the risk management services industry is highly fragmented, which compounds the difficulty of finding critical resources at the right time and limiting communication around emerging threats. Both the providers of risk services and the enterprises in need of those services agree that a better model is needed—one that leads to a more effective and efficient approach to risk management.

RANE is an information and advisory services company that connects business leaders to critical risk insights and expertise. RANE's technology platform and services drive informed decision-making by enabling risk professionals to more effectively anticipate emerging threats and more efficiently manage complex risk.

Improved access, insights, and collaboration

RANE's integrated suite of services provides access to, collaboration with, and unique insights from a global network of risk experts.

- ACCESS to a global network of credentialed risk experts, covering over 250 risk topics across six major categories. Subscribers can connect with leading experts to extend their professional networks and efficiently find the specific help they need.
- Actionable INSIGHTS from the collective wisdom of RANE risk experts, organized into a searchable database of curated and original content across a broad range of risk topics. This network intelligence and exclusive thought leadership helps subscribers benchmark their programs against peers, monitor risk developments, and anticipate emerging threats in an evolving risk landscape.
- ADVISORY services augment and complement our subscribers' existing risk management resources. RANE analysts and in-house subject matter experts are the "experts on the experts" and assist subscribers in finding the right resources to address their risk challenges. RANE serves as your "thought partner" to help scope and manage engagements with experts through to completion.
- RANE provides opportunities for peer and expert COLLABORATION through exclusive events. Expert speakers share analysis, best practices, and actionable strategies for addressing emerging risks. A diverse set of perspectives provides subscribers with a holistic view across the public and private sectors.
- RANE's platform and events provide VISIBILITY for participating experts, allowing them to target senior level risk professionals, promote their expertise, and educate and engage with subscribers to build their brands.